March 2018

Spring, as you know, is slow in coming this year, but we're filled with hope for good weather, bright sunshine and longer periods of daylight for the days ahead.

The students and staff at Evans Park are engaged in so many productive learning activities, working now towards fortifying newly acquired skills and strategies, challenging themselves and expressing their independence.

On Tuesday night, I gave a report to the School Board about the work we've been doing this year at Evans Park. The focus of the presentation was on our effort to employ flexible thinking with respect to our instructional planning, learning spaces and our scheduling. I wanted our leaders to know also that the reason we are meeting with success with our goals is that the Evans Park staff has truly embraced the notion of collective efficacy. I'm attaching the link to my slides for that presentation; please feel free to ask questions about anything therein.

As your children become increasingly involved in outdoor sports and activities this spring, please remember that a commitment to progress at school should also be consistent. Perhaps indoor screen time can be reduced to ensure that routines and expectations are met while enjoying all that the season brings.

I hope that you will have a wonderful spring break and wish you joy in the upcoming holidays you may celebrate.

Sincerely,
Peggy Lynch
