1. Students were exposed to a new world to create a society.
 - a. Introduction to the new world because the previous one lives locally on a school computer and is not accessible via the internet. Mr. Tremblay was absent this day working remotely.
2. Students are exploring coding options in the game. They identified they can have an “agent” (small robot) in the game complete tasks for them by coding it. This method wasn’t pushed on them but was discovered through exploratory play on how the education version differs from the regular game.
