During the week, the art campers will engage with the medium creatively and explore various ways to approach art making using experimentation. These camps will provide the opportunity for young artists to pursue their own interests and subjects within each media with an open-ended approach that will yield diverse results specific to each artist!

Please note: Attendance on all four days is necessary for a complete experience. Due to the exploratory nature and likely spontaneous results, video recordings will not be a part of this experience.

*The virtual Art Camp will be conducted via the Museum's Zoom account. The Zoom link to access the class will be included on your registration receipt/confirmation email.
