Dear Parents,

As the summer approaches, I thought this would be an appropriate time to have the children embark on a summer reading adventure and, as luck would have it, Barnes & Noble has provided me with a Summer Reading Journal. The journal is part of an effortless program that will put students on the summer reading track. All students have to do is record the title and author of the books they have read during the summer that have intrigued them, kept them reading, found them falling in love with the characters in a series, and/or stretched their imagination.

Once students have logged in eight (8) books on their Summer Reading Journal and have added a description of their favorite part of the book on the spaces provided, students will be eligible to choose a free book from the Barnes & Noble list found right on the journal! To obtain their book, all they have to do is go to the nearest Barnes & Noble during the month of July and August, show their completed Summer Reading Journal, AND collect their free book!!! Pretty cool!!!

Please remember, it is important to keep your child on task when it comes to summer reading, which is not always an easy undertaking. Therefore, I am hoping that you allow your child to participate in this summer reading incentive, which will in turn kick start their summer reading adventures! After all, the most important goal of this summer reading incentive is to engage the curiosity and interests of your child by helping him/her fill part of the summer days finding success and pleasure in reading, and the incentives Barnes & Noble is offering should help achieve those goals within your child!

Finally, I would like to leave you with this thought:

Read- (verb) to engage oneself in a most satisfying endeavor during which your senses may be awakened, your imagination set free, and your brain-power challenged, not to mention, the possibility of just having fun!

I wish you a safe, healthy, and delightful summer and, as always...Happy Reading!

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Sandra Leahy
