Happenings on the CMP Carmichael Campus:

The teachers were treated to a wonderful couple of days for Teacher Appreciation Days. There was breakfast set up each morning, the classroom doors were decorated most spectacularly, and sweet gifts abound.

The upper elementary Wax Museum was a huge hit. Each of the four classrooms represented a different period in history or historical figures. It was quite impressive that the students could stand completely still until “activated,” and then recite a short piece about their character.

The next event for the entire school will be the Science Fair. Students and families are encouraged to display a science project. Each classroom emphasizes a different scientific topic and has hands-on activities for the visitors. Mad Science will also be present that evening to give demonstrations. They will be in our Science Center so families may see the progress made to date.

The library is coming along, and the upcoming Buy-one/Get-one Free Scholastic Book Fair will be held in the library. Parents may purchase a book for the library if they wish, and donations for additional shelving will be welcome.

The renovations in the 200 wing are in progress. The office staff peeks in periodically to do plan layouts and configurations. We are very excited to move in this summer!
